Be Your Pet’s Biggest Advocate | Alternatives to Shelter Intake

At the Wisconsin Humane Society, we know that the shelter is not always the best choice for some animals. When you explore alternatives to surrendering for your animal, you can:

- Create shelter space for other animals who do not have an advocate like you to help them
- Protect your animal from stress and possible illness in the shelter
- Help keep the shelter population low so we can provide optimal care for all animals
- Protect animals already in the shelter from any illness your animal may have
- Find a great home for your animal
- Explore potential ways you and your animal can stay together

This information is designed to give you the tools you need to find your animal a new home or perhaps keep them in your family.

Thank you for exploring alternatives to surrendering your animal to the shelter. If you do need to bring your animal to the shelter, we ask that you make an appointment in advance to ensure we have the resources available to care for them. Please call the campus nearest you for more information:

- Door County Campus      920-746-1111
- Green Bay Campus 920-469-3110
- Milwaukee Campus      414-431-6115
- Ozaukee Campus 262-377-7580
- Racine Campus 262-554-6699

If you have questions about the surrender process, please email petresources@wihumane.org and we’ll connect you with the appropriate resource relative to your inquiry.

Please note that WHS does not have any geographical boundaries for intake of owned animals, but we ask that you first contact the shelter in your area, if applicable, before setting up an appointment for surrender.

HOW TO FIND A GREAT HOME FOR YOUR ANIMAL

RE-HOMING RESOURCES
When it comes to finding a new home for your animal, their best resource is often you! Since you know all their preferences, habits, and routines, your insight can be incredibly helpful in finding them a great match. As an added bonus, your animal gets to stay in a familiar environment (your home) while you search for an adopter, rather than coming to a shelter. It may also help to ensure your pet is up to date on his/her vaccinations and spayed/neutered before you start the re-homing process.

- Start with Your Network! Ask your friends, family, colleagues, neighbors, etc. to spread the word – you never know who is looking for a new companion. We suggest that you ask for a small adoption fee (or donation to a local shelter in lieu of an adoption fee) rather than offering your animal as “free to a good home.”

- Virtual Rehoming
  This website run by AdoptAPet.com is a free listing for animals in our community needing new homes: www.wihumane.org/virtual-rehoming. Using this site allows you to:
  1. Create a profile for your pet so they can be seen by millions of potential adopters.
  2. Review applications from interested adopters with support from the Adopt-a-Pet Rehome team.
  3. Get guidance on how to initiate safe, pressure-free meetings with applicants.
  4. Receive a customized adoption contract to protect the transfer of your pet’s ownership.

Be sure to include accurate contact information, so that individuals interested in adopting your animal can reach you. Please allow at least 48 hours for your submission to be posted to the website. Note: This is a third-party site that is not affiliated with nor operated by WHS.

- Re-home on Your Own
  On the next few pages are materials you can use when you are talking to someone who is interested in adopting your animal. These open-ended questions can help you get a sense of whether the interested party is a good match for your animal.

TEMPORARY CARE AND BOARDING
If you are looking for temporary care for your animal, WHS recommends talking with your friends, family, and/or veterinarian for recommendations on boarding or in-home pet-sitting services. Make sure to leave detailed instructions for the care of your animal, including feeding and exercise schedules as well as emergency contact information. Online research of available boarding facilities and pet-sitting services are also options. If you decide to board your animal, visit any boarding kennel before making the decision to leave your pet there. If using a pet-sitting service, spend some time individually interviewing the person who will be caring for your animal.

BREED RESCUES
If your companion animal is a purebred or exotic type of pet, there may be a breed- or species-specific rescue group that is able to help. An online search with your location and your animal's breed is all you need to get started (example search: “Great Dane rescue Milwaukee.” Each rescue’s policies are different, so be sure to ask questions before surrendering your animal to the rescue.

When you contact WHS to surrender your animal, we will ask for some basic information about you and your pet, as well as offer resources to ensure you are aware of alternatives to bringing your animal to the shelter. Once you are on the list to surrender your animal, we’ll do our best to schedule an appointment quickly.

Please call the campus nearest you for more information:

For everyone’s safety, all dogs must be leashed and all cats in carriers. If you do not have a leash or a carrier, please leave your animal in your vehicle and request one from the shelter.
Service Fees
We do ask for a fee at the time of surrender to help offset the cost of caring for your animal; however, if you cannot afford the fee, please let the team member you’re working with know and they will work with you to reduce or waive the fee.

Shelter Pathing
During your animal’s stay, they will receive medical and behavioral support as warranted by the individual animal.

While WHS works hard to meet the needs of all animals, there are situations when we may be unable to support an animal in our adoption program. Anyone who surrenders their pet to WHS will be notified (unless you request otherwise) if we are unable to place them into our adoption program, giving you the opportunity to reclaim your animal and try alternative methods for finding them a new home. WHS never euthanizes animals due to time constraints nor space limitations. You can find more information about our outcome decision making process here: www.wihumane.org/about-us/faqs
